

December SPACEPORT ROCKETRY ASSOCIATION 2022 LAUNCH REPORT

Not a bad day for a rocket launch. Had a NAR Jr L1 Certification Flight, 15 L1 certification attempts, and one L2 certification attempt.

For the Weather man predictions for terrible weather for the day, it turned out great. The clouds were between 9000' and 7000', the temperature started in the high 60's and progressed to low 70's, with light to moderate winds around 7-9 mph from the NW to W as the day progressed.

We had three College teams launching their Sub-scale NASA USLI rockets to qualify them in the next stage of the competition. And what I saw they all were successful.
